The Godhead

The Seventh-day Adventist Church teaches a belief in the Godhead, which encompasses the eternal and coequal unity of three divine persons: God the Father, Jesus Christ the Son, and the Holy Spirit. This triune nature of God is fundamental to Adventist theology and shapes the understanding of God's work in creation, redemption, and sanctification.

God the Father

God the Father is recognized as the Creator and Sustainer of all things. He is the source of life, love, and justice, and His character is revealed through the person of Jesus Christ. Adventists emphasize His role as a loving and personal God who desires a relationship with humanity.

Jesus Christ

Jesus Christ, the Son of God, is central to the 28 fundamental beliefs of the Seventh-day Adventist Church. He is fully divine and fully human, having lived a sinless life on earth. His life, death on the cross, resurrection, and ascension provide the foundation for salvation and the hope of eternal life for believers.

The Holy Spirit

The Holy Spirit is the third person of the Godhead, actively working to convict, regenerate, and empower believers. The Spirit guides the church, inspires the Scriptures, and leads individuals in their spiritual growth and Christian living.

The Scriptures

The Bible holds a unique and authoritative position within the Adventist faith. It is considered the inspired word of God, the ultimate standard for faith, doctrine, and conduct. The church believes that the Scriptures are reliable and sufficient for teaching, reproof, correction, and training in righteousness.

The Nature of Humanity

Adventists believe that humans were created in God's image but fell into sin through disobedience. This original sin resulted in separation from God and introduced death and suffering into the world. Despite this, humanity retains the capacity to respond to God's grace and choose salvation.

The Great Controversy

The doctrine of the Great Controversy explains the cosmic conflict between Christ and Satan. This ongoing battle over God's character, law, and sovereignty impacts every individual's life. It underpins the church's mission to proclaim the gospel and prepare people for Christ's return.

The Life, Death, and Resurrection of Christ

The 28 fundamental beliefs of the Seventh-day Adventist Church emphasize the significance of Christ's incarnation, sacrificial death, and resurrection. Jesus' atoning death on the cross provides forgiveness for sin, while His resurrection assures believers of victory over death and the promise of eternal life.

The Experience of Salvation

Salvation in Adventist theology is viewed as a gift from God, received through faith in Jesus Christ. It involves repentance, acceptance of Christ's righteousness, and ongoing transformation by the Holy Spirit. This dynamic process leads to sanctification and ultimate redemption.

The Church

The church is the community of believers who confess Jesus Christ as Lord and Savior. It serves as a spiritual family, a place of worship, fellowship, and mission. The Seventh-day Adventist Church sees itself as a remnant church called to proclaim the three angels' messages of Revelation 14.

The Remnant and Its Mission

The remnant church has a special role in preparing the world for Christ's second coming. Adventists identify themselves as this remnant, tasked with calling people to obedience to God's commandments and faith in Jesus.

Unity in the Body of Christ

Despite denominational differences, Adventists uphold the unity of all believers in Christ. The church encourages mutual love, respect, and collaboration among Christians worldwide.

Baptism

Baptism by immersion symbolizes the believer's death to sin and resurrection to a new life in Christ. It is an essential step of obedience and public confession of faith within the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

The Lord's Supper

The Lord's Supper, or Communion, commemorates Christ's sacrifice and fosters spiritual renewal. It includes the participation in the bread and wine, symbolizing Christ's body and blood, and serves as a reminder of His soon return.

The Gift of Prophecy

Adventists believe the gift of prophecy is manifested in the ministry of Ellen G. White, whose writings provide guidance, encouragement, and instruction. This gift is seen as a continuing manifestation of the Holy Spirit's work within the church.

The Law of God

The moral law, summarized in the Ten Commandments, reflects God's character and will. The Seventh-day Adventist Church teaches that the law remains binding for Christians as a guide to holy living and love toward God and neighbor.

The Sabbath

Observance of the seventh-day Sabbath, from Friday sunset to Saturday sunset, is a distinctive belief of the Adventist Church. It is a day of rest, worship, and spiritual renewal, commemorating God's creative work and the promise of ultimate rest in eternity.

Stewardship

Stewardship involves recognizing God as the owner of all things and responsibly managing time, talents, and resources for His glory. Adventists practice faithful giving, tithing, and service as expressions of gratitude and obedience.

Christian Behavior

The 28 fundamental beliefs of the Seventh-day Adventist Church promote a lifestyle that reflects Christian values, including healthful living, honesty, purity, and compassion. Believers are called to be examples of Christ's love through their conduct.

Marriage and the Family

Marriage is viewed as a divine institution established by God between one man and one woman. The family is the foundational unit of society and the church, where love, faith, and moral values are nurtured and passed on.

The Second Coming of Christ

The imminent and visible return of Jesus Christ is a central hope for Adventists. This event will bring the final judgment, the reward of the righteous, and the restoration of all things.

Death and Resurrection

Adventists believe that death is an unconscious state until the resurrection at Christ's second coming. The righteous will be raised to eternal life, while the wicked face eternal destruction.

The Millennium and the End of Sin

The millennium refers to the thousand-year reign of Christ with His saints in heaven, a period during which the earth remains desolate. At the end of this time, sin and sinners will be forever destroyed, ending the great controversy.

The New Earth

After the final judgment, God will create a new heaven and a new earth where righteousness dwells. This eternal home will be free from sin, suffering, and death, fulfilling God's promise of everlasting peace and joy for His people.
