The primary cause of mesothelioma is exposure to asbestos fibers, which can be inhaled or ingested, leading to cellular damage over time. This disease is characterized by a long latency period, often developing decades after asbestos exposure. Understanding the causes and progression of mesothelioma is essential for both medical treatment and legal claims. The connection between asbestos exposure and mesothelioma forms the foundation for many lawsuits and compensation cases handled by mesothelioma sokolove legal professionals.

Types of Mesothelioma

There are several types of mesothelioma, classified based on the location of the tumor:

- Pleural Mesothelioma: Affecting the lining of the lungs, this is the most common form.
- Peritoneal Mesothelioma: Occurs in the lining of the abdomen.

- Pericardial Mesothelioma: Involves the lining around the heart.
